

Executive Biography

Randi Braunwalder

Americas Sustainable Impact Manager
HP Inc.

Randi Braunwalder serves as the Head of HP Sustainable Impact for the Americas Region. She leads a team of people to ensure HP products comply with environmental regulations in the region, as well as strives to differentiate HP offerings based on their sustainability attributes, ultimately helping customers meet their business goals and sustainability objectives.

In her role Braunwalder also counsels HP customers and channel partners on sustainability marketing practices, environmental claims, green IT, recycling, eco-labels, regulatory compliance and sustainable operations.

Braunwalder joined HP in 1985 and has held numerous roles within the company, including: procurement buyer, marketing program manager, communications lead, public relations manager, sales promotions specialist, advertising manager, executive communications manager and several roles in the sustainability arena.